TOKYO, Aug. 14—(INS)—U. S. forces hurled Red troops back a half mile toward the lower Nak-tong river below Taegu today and scored a swift net gain of 12 miles along the southern side of the Korean front.

In the northwest sector, however, the North Koreans threw another 500-man spearhead across the Nak-tong onto Taegu's near approaches in the beginning of a momentarily anticipated new enemy drive that may be the biggest of the war.

A briefing officer at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Headquarters said six Communist divisions totalling perhaps more than 65,000 troops, with tanks and mobile artillery, were poised for an all-out direct blow at Taegu.

The latter is the inland cornerstone of the entire front protecting the all-important entry harbor of Pusan, 55 miles to the southeast.

Along the northeast side of the front, U. S. and South Korean troops lashed back from a hotly de-Continued on Page Four

Candlelight Wedding
In Eddington Church

CROYDON, Aug. 14—A candle-light wedding was witnessed in the Eddington Presbyterian Church on Friday evening, when Miss Dorothy Wilk, formerly of Croydon, and now of Philadelphia, became the bride of Corporal Walter Rowen of Philadelphia. The Rev. Arthur Sargis, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony. The altar was graced with a white bouquet of flowers below a lighted cross. Music was furnished by Mrs. Gertrude Kirk, organist. She accompanied the soloist who rendered "Because" and the "Lord's Prayer."

The bride was attended by Miss Shirley Shifferstine, Croydon. She was dressed in a gown of blue nylon, ballerina length. She wore a pink nylon picture hat and mits and pink slippers. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Albert Rommer, Philadelphia, attended the groom.

The bride was crowned in a ballerina length dress of white nylon. She wore a bank of white roses on her hair and carried white roses. She wore white mits and white slippers.

Mrs. Wilk, mother of the bride, wore a green crepe street dress, black hat and accessories. Her corsage was of white roses. The mother of the groom wore a blue lace and taffeta street dress. Her accessories were dark blue and her corsage of pink roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the manse for approximately 100 people. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Ohio. The bride is a graduate of a New York City High School and a dental assistant school. She is employed by a Philadelphia dentist. The groom is a member of the U. S. Army tank corps and is stationed in Germany. He arrived in America August 6th from Germany.

ROHM & HAAS CO. BUYS FARM AT LINCOLN HIGHWAY AND STREET ROAD FOR THE EXTENSION OF EXPERIMENTAL FIELD RESEARCH ON AGRICULTURAL CHEMICALS; SOIL IS WELL SUITED TO FRUIT TREES

Purchase of a 211-acre Bucks County farm for the extension of its experimental field research on agricultural chemicals was announced today by the Rohm & Haas Company. The farm which was purchased from eight heirs of the Devlin Estate, including William J. Begley, prominent local attorney and trust officer of the Bristol Trust Company, is located about nine miles from the company's Bristol plant, near the intersection of Street road and Route 1 (Lincoln highway). The purchase price is given as $57,000.

According to E. L. Helwig, vice-president, who represented the company in the transaction, the farm was selected primarily because the soil is well suited to fruit trees. "Some of our principal development work is concerned with insecticides for the control of pests on fruit," stated Mr. Helwig, "and the soil of our present experimental farm, adjoining the Bristol plant site, while entirely satisfactory for the cultivation of vegetable crops, is not a soil in which fruit trees thrive.

This is due mainly to the presence close to the surface of a deep layer of impervious clay which retards the growth of tree roots and also presents a drainage problem. The soil at the Devlin Estate property is of the type known as Chester silt loam which is particularly well adapted to the cultivation of fruit trees. The farm has the additional advantage of being within a convenient distance of our insecticide laboratories at the plant.

"A good deal of work will be needed to put the property in condition for use by our entomologists. As soon as this work can be completed the planting of the various types of fruit trees needed in our research will be started."

Agricultural chemicals are among the most widely used of the company's products, including: Dithane, a highly successful fungicide for potatoes, tomatoes and other vegetables; and Rhothane, an insecticide for the control of corn earworms, tomato hornworms, the red-banded leafroller on apples, and the orange tortrix on pears, apples, grapes and other fruits.

BRIDGEWATER, Aug. 14—The dance steps are being polished up and the singing brought into key as the 150 children of Camp Summerdale make ready to close out their first season with a presentation of the operetta "Hansel and Gretel" this Thursday.

About 400 parents are expected to attend the production, which has been in rehearsal for a number of weeks at the day camp, located along the Neshaminy creek off State road.

Sam Browne and Pat Patchefski, directors of the camp, are feeling rather proud to have all the children, ranging in age from four to 11 and a half, take part in the show, for that's been their whole philosophy at the camp.

The two physical education directors, who teach in the Philadelphia schools during the winter, put in a lot of work on the 44-acre tract since last September.

When they finally selected the place after looking for a suitable site throughout the Philadelphia area they had a lot of work ahead of them. Four years of disuse had turned the former Turner's Camp into a area of overgrown weeds and dilapidated buildings.

Borough Council To Again
Consider Zoning Ordinance

Bristol Borough Council has given notice that a proposed zoning ordinance will be considered at the regular meeting to be held tonight in the municipal building at eight o'clock.

The ordinance to be given consideration tonight, is the one which council rejected on March 13th by a vote of 12 to 6. This was the first attempt ever made to zone Bristol.

It is said that some of the councilmen who voted against the ordinance at the time of its rejection, did so because they had been members of the body only since January 1st, and had not had sufficient time in which to study the effects of such a law.

Other councilmen, it is said, have changed their views upon zoning since registering their opposition on March 13th.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Klerman
(Distributed by International News Service)

Government spending is getting so expensive the RFC has taken the "come and get it" sign off the loan window.

The president has just nominated three men with tight pockets to the governing board and today you've got to offer something more than a receipted milk bill as security for a million dollar loan.

These fellows may even demand to see a bank book with deposits of at least 10 dollars.

So apparently the day is past when you could borrow 37 million dollars to experiment with a metal house with no cellar, no fireplace and no production worth mentioning.

Today you couldn't even borrow four million dollars to dream up a thousand dollar automobile in the three thousand dollar price class.

But you've got to say one thing for the old RFC . . . in an age when we were worrying as individuals about saving our pennies they didn't worry any about spending our dollars.

Anyway we're still slaving for a rainy day.

GERMANS ARMS FOR FRANCE

A French Foreign Office spokesman has put up a trial balloon which, if it reflects the thinking of the new cabinet, represents a complete flip flop in French policy toward Germany.

It is proposed that Germany make arms for France. Even up to a few months ago such a thought would have been viewed with something akin to sheer horror at Paris. In the face of the lowering Soviet threat to western Europe, it reflects a certain measure of Gallic horse sense.

The proposal entails lifting the restrictions on German arms manufacture and channeling these products into the arsenals of the West. Presumably France would be the greatest beneficiary, but the contribution such a scheme would make to the German economy and western preparedness would be considerable.

There is little doubt that France is looking at this plan seriously only because it is the lesser of several evils. It will be remembered that France was the foot-dragger when it came to setting up German industry after the last war. There was good reason for the delay and the distrust. German armies have overrun France three times within three-quarters of a century.

Germany can't turn to making articles of war overnight. With West German industry rolling at about half of pre-war capacity, it stands to reason that a rather lengthy period of retooling would pass before the fruits of the plan would be in the hands of French armed forces.

Naturally France would keep a wary eye on any German activity having to do with arms, but this should be an automatic reflex on the part of the French. There is risk here, but it appears to be a calculated one. It is believed the majority of western European heads will approve of France going through with it.

HOW THINGS CHANGE!

A year ago not even the most optimistic Navy adherent would have given the supercarrier "United States" another lease on life. At the time the Navy was back in the farthest corner of its doghouse. Backers of the B-36 and the "single weapon" concept of warfare seemed to have won the day.

Well, this is mid-August, 1950. In Korea GI's are doing what comes naturally and hollering for air support. The Navy is mounting carrier strikes almost as fast as flight crews can ready the planes. Both Army and Navy wish there were more carriers to mount more strikes.

Now comes the news that the Navy's newest appropriation from Congress includes funds for modernizing, converting, or building a total of 112 ships. Congressman Robeson of Virginia says he wouldn't be surprised to see the giant flatfoot, over which there was so much squabbling, afloat and in operation within a reasonable period of time. My, how things do change!

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette, issue dated at Bristol Apr. 3, 1902. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published at Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

W. J. Moore and a party of friends will erect a club house on the bluff overlooking the Delaware, at Pine Grove, adjoining the property of the late Walter Laing. The work of erection will be commenced at once.

All the tenants who occupy the properties in the fourth ward, recently purchased by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, have received notice to vacate the premises in 30 days.

A meeting of the Bucks County Country Club was held in the casino at the club house, Langhorne, on Saturday afternoon last, for the purpose of revising the constitution and by-laws. It was voted to limit the membership to 300 persons, active and associate, independent of non-resident and juvenile members. There are now 12 names on the waiting list.

The following committees were appointed:
Membership—Theodore F. Phillips, chairman; Jesse Lukens, Howard Reifsnider, Howard Cooper Johnson, Joseph R. Grundy, and Charles Langhorne Taylor.
Finance—Charles J. Matthews, chairman; Jesse Lukens, Hon. Charles F. Warwick and Walter F. Ledford.
House—Henry Palmer, chairman; Howard Reifsnider, Charles J. Matthews and William B. Parry.
Greens—Charles Langhorne Taylor, chairman; Samuel C. Eastburn, Dr. Henry Lovett, William B. Parry and Augustus J. Cadwalader.

The canal was so greatly damaged by the recent floods that the company will have to practically rebuild it in many places. No coal has yet been shipped from the Lehigh by boat and the prospects are not bright for early transportation. There is talk of the coal operators transferring the coal shuttles to Easton. If that is done the railroads will haul the coal from the mines to Easton, where it will be loaded on the boats instead of at Mauch Chunk.

Recently in New York city, a collection of paintings owned by Mrs. Daniel T. Hoag, of that city, were disposed of at the Fifth Avenue Art Galleries to the highest bidders. In the collection was one entitled "The Old Mill at Bristol" which was purchased by H. Kemp for $400. The artist was William M. Chase, a noted painter who spent several weeks in Bristol about two years ago. He was a guest at the Closson House, and did a great deal of sketching about Bristol.

The "Old Mill at Bristol" is the ancient Dorrance Mill, at the corner of Pond and Mill streets.

The new iron steamer "Springfield" is now doing service on the Bordentown and Philadelphia route. The new boat is substantial and of large capacity. On her first arrival in Bordentown, she received an ovation from tug boats and other craft having whistles and lying in the vicinity of her wharf.

EMILIE—Supervisor Updyke is smoothing down the much furrowed roads. There is great talk of stoning the road from this village to Bristol.

The "Pennsy" has increased the wages of the section gangs on the New York division one cent per hour, making 13 cents an hour and 10 hours a day, to take effect April 1st.

WEST BRISTOL TWP.—Charles Mintzer, Jr., and W. F. Allen are vying with each other in raising pigeons, both owning fine specimens, which are greatly in demand. Neither of them have any difficulty in disposing of their birds.

The Bloomsdale Baseball Club will open the season next Saturday on their home grounds, the opposing team being Streep's All Stars. The All Stars will be captained by Edward Dougherty.

Editor Gazette: The demand for houses for rent at a moderate figure is growing fierce in our town.

The contractors and builders about town are making the mistake of their lives in not at once building a number of houses that could be rented for from $8 to $10 per month. Houses that rented last year for $10 per month are now held at $13 and $14. There has been no general advance in wages. Many people no doubt will be surprised to hear that there are skilled workmen in our mills whose wages do not average over $7.50 per week apiece.

Children Can Spoil Friendship

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

YOUNG mothers who for years, even before marriage, have been close friends may have their friendship strained when the tot of one mother dominates the tot of the other mother.

A mother writes:
"A very good friend living near has a little girl 6 months older than Freddy. All summer they played together well when we visited each other about an hour daily. But a few weeks ago Linda began to hit Freddy on the head with any available handy toy.

Takes Toys Away
"Lately Linda has begun to take toys away from him. When Freddy is happy with a toy and Linda has her arms full, I am at a loss to know what to do when she comes to him and demands what he has. I do not feel that I have any more right to take from him to give to her than I would to take from her to give to him. And if he does not want to part with what he has when I suggest he let Linda play with his toy I do not see any reason to press the matter further." (Right!)

"Recently in a neighbor's yard they met and played with the third child's playthings. Freddy was happy until Linda tried to take the one thing she had. He stood by my knee and held on to the toy, a mallet with a fairly long handle. He simply did not want to give it up. Later she came across it in a legitimate way and took a swing at Freddy's head with it. Fortunately it only scared his head but scared him. He howled.

A Cry Baby

"I want my child to learn to share but wonder what is to be done in a case like that. I am sure Linda's mother must think Freddy is a cry baby. I feel like a fool sitting helplessly by when Linda from hitting when her mother is right there. Nor do I feel like making him give up to Linda all the time.

"All I can think of to do is to stop seeing them, but since we mothers are good friends, I hesitate to do that. Yet it is having a bad effect on my child's personality."

What makes this problem so difficult is that the neighbor mother has trusted to words to restrain her child from hitting, when she should use the hand.

As I wrote Freddy's mother, she should, before breaking with the neighbor, try to win her to agree to the following: That when one child hits the other child the offender shall get immediate punishment—sound spanking by the mother if she is present, fifteen minutes in a chair if seen only by the other mother; otherwise to let the children work matters out themselves unless one child is always the underdog, in which case the aggressor shall be restrained from wrenching a toy from the other child. This will have to be done with skill lest the less-aggressive child grows still less ready to defend his own rights.

Suggests Trim Rolled Roast For Carving Ease

Easy carving! This is one of the grand features of a boned and rolled roast. In addition, homemakers are pleased to find that these trim roasts fit neatly into a refrigerator and take less space than similar roasts with bone in.

Among the roasts that meat dealers bone and roll are beef rib and pork, veal and lamb shoulder. Identical cooking steps are followed for both boned and unboned roasts; however, since bone is a better conductor of heat than lean meat a boned roast requires slightly longer cooking time—about 10 minutes per pound more.

According to Reba Staggs, meat cookery expert, a rolled roast is cooked as any other roast. It is placed on a rack in an open roasting pan. No water is added and the meat left uncovered throughout the entire cooking time. Beef, veal and lamb roasts are cooked in a 300 degree F. oven; fresh pork roasts in a 350 degree F. oven.

While I disposed of a chocolate soda, Ken Keene read from a clipping: "An excellent medicine which cures colic, dry belly-ache, loss of limbs, fever and agues, all sorts of obstructions, rheumatism, melancholy, audacity and gout."

Suspecting a gag, I still asked, "Some new discovery?" "Not new," said Ken, "this was an ad that appeared in a Boston newspaper in 1741. It probably sold a lot of the stuff. And today we read and hear on the air extravagant and even untrue baloney about various merchandise, smokes and drugs. The same kind of people still fall for it—as they do for quack political cure-alls. I'm troubled with a conscience; I tell the people no more than the truth about goods I sell, even though so many people seem to like to be kidded."

"More power to you, Ken," said I.

To Present Opera As Camp Closes

ing on June 7. In between September last year and June of this year the ground was cleared and landscaped, buildings painted, walls plastered, play areas set up, a program lined up, children enrolled, and a staff hired.

With the same energy that went into building the camp the two partners outlined a program of activities for the children that come every day from the northeast section of Philadelphia.

A child has a hard time being bored at the camp. Games such as baseball, volleyball, ping pong, quoits, beach games, swimming, fishing and a variety of other amusements are available. For rainy days roller skating, rhythm bands and movies are available. A program of arts and crafts under Eugene Yerlish, from Miami Beach, Fla., has every child make something to bring home nearly every day.

The talented Mr. Yerlish's artwork meanders throughout the camp, covering the side of buildings, inside walls, and even the trees and bushes. He has made puppets for productions at the camp, makes pictures and playthings for the children, and is producing all the scenery for the operetta.

The camp program has something for everyone from the moment they're brought in by cars, buses and station wagons from their homes, at about 9.45 each weekday morning.

They break up into Skippy groups, four and five year olds; the five and six-year-old Pioneer group, and separate sections for boys and girls in the Junior, Intermediate and Senior groups.

A swimming beach has been built at the former Neshaminy Aquadrome and the children are taken there in shifts throughout the afternoon under the direction of instructor Jim Still, former University of Miami swimming star.

A noonday lunch prepared by a dietician is followed by relaxing on cots to music for the younger children. More games and fun make a full day for the youngsters before they start home again at about 4.30.

Browne and Patchefski have tried to make the day camp unique by offering a schedule of activities usually found only in overnight camps.

A staff of 30, most of them professionally trained persons, are able to give the children individual attention. An infirmary is also set up to take care of any injuries. Next year the two directors expect to take in about 200 children.

They are planning to expand their program and provide facilities for children who wish to stay overnight.

LONDON. — (INS) — Princess Margaret, who started millions of British women wearing anklestraps, has set off a new fashion. And ties of white shoes in England are expected to decline because Margaret is wearing them less often.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

SUNDAY time is salad time, and when the thermometer rises, the onefewer will try to vary the meals with cool, nutritious salad dishes. Here's a saying that the dressing really makes the salad, so this week, a P's Service for Homemakers suggests four salad dressing recipes that should tickle the family's palate. They have been carefully tested in Woman's Day magazine's test kitchens.

Sharp Cheddar Cheese Dressing: Finely shred 1½ pound sharp cheddar cheese. Let soften to room temperature. Add 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 minced clove garlic, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne and 2 teaspoons Worcestershire. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Keep in refrigerator. Makes about 2 cups. Good on fruit, vegetable, macaroni or potato salad.

Whipped Cream Dressing: Add 1 teaspoon dry mustard, dash of cayenne and 1 tablespoon lemon juice to 1 cup mayonnaise. Whip ½ cup heavy cream and fold into mayonnaise mixture. Will keep in refrigerator 3 or 4 days. Makes about 1½ cups. Good on fruit, sea food, poultry, cooked or raw vegetables, macaroni, and slaw.

Hot Bacon Dressing: Fry 3 slices bacon slowly until crisp. Remove and crumble. Stir 2 tablespoons vinegar, 4 cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne. Bring to a boil; add bacon and pour at once over garden lettuce, dandelions, spinach or other greens or potatoes.

Thousand Island Dressing: Mix together 1 cup homemade or bought mayonnaise, ½ cup chili sauce, 3 tablespoons minced green pepper, 3 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, 1 minced pimiento and 1 teaspoon grated onion or 2 teaspoons chives. Keep in refrigerator. Makes about 1½ cups. Good with sea food, greens, hard-cooked eggs, raw or cooked vegetables.

U. S. Forces Hurl Red Troops Back Half-Mile tended but presently unused airfield in a drive to hurl Red units out of the ruined port of Pohang.

As of Monday morning, here are the area-by-area highlights of war developments:

Southern sector: U. S. marines dashed westward 15 miles beyond Kosong and broke into the road junction of Sachon, seven miles due south of the enemy's anchor base of Chinju, 52 miles west of Pusan. Then the leathernecks pulled back three miles to the east to occupy strategic heights which comprised the real objective of their lightning advance.

Southwest sector: Counter-attacking American troops and tanks crashed through two Red road-blocks and regained a half mile against artillery-supported enemy units in the Communist bulge east of the lower Nakdong. This action was in the area of Changnyong, 23 miles south of Taegu and only 12 miles west of the Taegu-Pusan rail-highway lifeline.

Northwest sector: An enemy vanguard of 500 shock troops met across the Nakdong on Taegu's immediate approaches and was promptly counter-attacked by U. S. First Cavalry Division troops. An officer predicted this enemy crossing force would be exterminated or driven back into the river by Monday night. He said the U. S. First Cavalry's foot soldiers had slain 1,000 Reds who crossed the river in two days.

Northern sector: Communist columns were strafed and five Red-occupied villages were set aflame by Australian Mustang fighters west and east of Yongdong, officially described as "behind enemy lines." A front dispatch said Red troops which had crossed the east-west upper shoulder of the Nakdong in that area had thrust within 33 miles north of Taegu.

Northeast sector: Gen. MacArthur's Monday noontime communique announced that tank-parked American and South Korean units were battling to clear Communist troops out of Pohang, 64 miles north of Pusan.

Guests enjoyed swimming, boating and games and later in the day a picnic supper was served on the lawn by the pool. Guests were from Virginia, Trenton, Pennington, Hamilton Square, Copper Hill, Hartsville, Ivyland, Ambler, Newtown, Carversville, Wyncote, Pennlyn and Hattboro.

Presenting a report at a brief meeting of Silverdale Fire Company, Chief L. C. Yost stated the volunteers had not received any alarms the past month. The company was presented asbestos clothing and gloves by the Industrial Safety Specialties Company, Perkasie, at which place the local firemen assisted in fighting a fire some months ago.

Glenn Slaymaker Weds Miss Evelyn Den Bleyker

An attractive summer wedding took place at four o'clock Saturday afternoon in the First Baptist Church, Bristol, when Miss Evelyn DenBleyker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad DenBleyker, of Emille, became the bride of Glenn Slaymaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Slaymaker of Bristol. The Rev. William Hakes was the officiating clergyman. Henry Adams, Bristol, presided at the organ. The soloist was Jay Hart of Bristol, who sang "Lords Prayer" by Malott, "O Perfect Love" and "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden" by Mendelssohn.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white nylon having long pointed sleeves, with a rounded lace bertha collar effect in the front, the lace being edged in rhinestones, lace peplum also edged in rhinestones, button down back to waist, full skirt, with a long train, finger tip veil of illusion net, attached to a bonnet of satin and lace, white slippers, and carried an orchid with ivory trailing.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Maris Hart, Bristol, sister of the bride, she wearing a white frosted broadcated Velvair over pale green taffeta, having a V-neckline, edged in lace, fitted bodice, pale green taffeta sash, full skirt, cape sleeves, edged in lace, wore a picture hat of pale green, white slippers, white nylon gloves, and carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Mrs. John DenBleyker, Edgely, sister-in-law of bride acted as bridesmaid, she wearing a white frosted broadcated Velvair gown over pale lavender taffeta, it having a bertha collar, fitted bodice, full skirt, cape sleeves, taffeta sash of pale lavender, picture hat of lavender, white slippers, white nylon gloves, and basket of mixed flowers.

Mrs. Harold DenBleyker, Emille, sister-in-law of the bride, also acted as a bridesmaid, her gown being similar to that of Mrs. John DenBleyker only over pale yellow taffeta. The junior bridesmaid was Miss Judith Hart, Bristol, niece of bride, she wearing a long all white velvair broadcated gown, with a bertha collar, full skirt, blue taffeta sash, and a wreath of blue flowers in her hair, white slippers and carried a basket of mixed flowers. The men of the bridal party wore white coats and dark trousers.

Serving as best man was Harold Collett, Jr., Bensalem Township. The ushers were John DenBleyker, Edgely, and Harold DenBleyker, Emille, both brothers of the bride. A reception was held in the social room of the church with approximately 80 guests attending.

After a honeymoon trip to New York state the newlyweds will reside in their newly purchased home on Edgely avenue in Edgely.

The brides traveling outfit consisted of a pale yellow and brown organza dress, alligator shoes and bag and she wore an orchid corsage.

The groom is a graduate of Fallston high school and is employed in the office at Rohm & Haas Company, Bristol.

Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell,

Today's Quiet Moment

The Rev. Stanley A. Powell, Jr., Rector, Christ Episcopal Church, Eddington
Vicar, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Edgely

A wild-eyed, zealous young man came into a Rector's study one day and demanded the use of some parish facilities for a doubtful cause which the young man was backing. When he was refused, the young man went down on his knees and started to pray in a loud voice, giving all the arguments why he should be given this privilege. The Rector went over to the young man, grasped him firmly by the shoulder and brought him to his feet: "Young man," he said, "if you have anything to say to me, say it; but don't bounce it off Eternity."

The wild-eyed young man did not understand that Prayer must be undeviatingly God-ward. The Lord's Prayer is directed to God. Any Prayer which we dare to pray must be God-ward.

Let thy merciful ears, O Lord, be open to the prayers of thy humble servants; and that they may obtain their petitions, make them to ask such things as shall please thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

—Book of Common Prayer.

CROYDON WINS; NEWPORTVILLE IS OUT OF PLAYOFFS

Croydon A. C. eliminated Newportville from the playoffs of the Bristol Youth League yesterday. Manager Harry McGuckin's team scored a 7-4 triumph over the Redskins on the Third Ward field.

The Croydon youngsters packed too much punch in the first two innings as they scored seven times to build a 7-2 lead. The trio of markers in the first were counted after two were out.

They were made on a walk to "Jim" Morrell, a single by Joe Dominick, a pass to John Paone and a two-bagger from the bat of Cliff Holgate. "Bill" Struble also drew a pass but Harry Robinson flied out to end the inning.

The four runs in the second were produced on a walk to Harry McGuckin, Loeffler being hit with a pitched ball, singles by "Bill" Moll and Paone, and a double by Joe Dominick.

From the second inning on, Croydon was scoreless and made but two hits.

"Jim" Morrell went the route for the winners. He was touched for 10 hits and really had to bear down in the last frame as the Redskins scored a run and had two on base when Schmitt struck out to end the fracas. Newportville had runners on base in every inning but Morrell's nine strikeouts helped him out of the tight spots.

A SCAMORE AT PENNSBURY

By Louise White Watson

When you next visit Pennsbury, now become a Mecca to many from near and far, look for a young, vigorous sycamore standing in a straight and dignified attitude. The same stately tree was raised in a flower-pot by one living in Fallsington. It was not her intention, when planting the seed, to raise a sycamore tree but a purple wisteria. Well, it, too, like Longfellow's turnip, grew and grew, causing many replantings into larger receptacles. Then to her dismay, someone informed her she was raising a sycamore and not a wisteria as she had thought. "And to think," she exclaimed, "there I was, so proud of its rapid development, only to find I was raising a sycamore tree. Well, out into the garden it goes."

In the Garden
It took its place proudly among the vegetables, but soon it demanded so much space that the vegetable area dwindled to quite a small section. The owner of the tree, disappointed, exclaimed "Something has got to be done in regards to that tree. I don't want to have to cut it down, but what?" The owner of the tree, Mrs. Mercy Wink, formerly Mercy Crozier, was the daughter of William Crozier who resided on the Pennsbury Farm for a number of years, whose former home is still used as a residence for the caretaker of Pennsbury. Someone realizing that the owner of the tree had lived at Pennsbury for a number of years, all her girlhood days and later a bride in the same house, suggested that were the facts known, there might be a way of transplanting it to the lawn at her former home, Pennsbury. On contacting Charles Henry Moon, who was actively interested in the restoration of Pennsbury and through him, professional tree-movers, with all their paraphernalia, took hold and the flower-pot sycamore now stands proudly on the lawn at Pennsbury.

JUICE HINTS

NEW YORK. — (INS) — Here's a tip on how to make canned orange and grapefruit juices taste more like they were fresh. If you pour chilled juice back and forth from one glass to another before serving, it will taste fresher. This pouring puts back into the juice the air that was removed during vacuum canning. But don't air the juice in advance because the amount of vitamin C may be affected. Pour it from one glass to another just before serving and be sure to have the juice chilled.

HARRIMAN A. C. ENTERS PLAYOFFS BY A VICTORY

Harriman A. C., a new entry in the Bristol Youth Baseball League, entered the playoff finals by beating the Bristol Terrace nine, 12-9, in a hitting bee yesterday on the Terrace diamond.

Harriman, managed by Stan Lelinski, scored a quintet of runs in the sixth canto to cop the verdict. Terrace played hard ball and came back strong to tally four times in their last turn with the stick but the early lead of the sixth warders was too much to overcome.

Marty Braam did the pitching for the Harriman boys and did well except for his wildness. He allowed four hits, two by both Lester Gibbs and Vito Bascio. Bascio's triple in the fourth was responsible for three runs. He singled in the seventh for two more runs. Braam struck out 10, walked six and hit two.

Liver Sausage Appears Off Cold Meat Platter

Quick meals, with emphasis on color and taste appeal, are for the homemaker who has ready-to-serve liver sausage in her refrigerator, says home economist Reba Staggs.

For serving in hot form, liver sausage slices may be wrapped with bacon strips, placed in a baking dish, then slowly baked until the bacon is cooked and the liver heated. Chopped liver sausage combined with tomato pulp and a bit of minced onion or green pepper is the perfect stuffing to be baked in plump tomato shells. Or ½-inch slices of this ready-to-serve meat may be brushed with melted butter or margarine, then broiled or panbroiled with tomato halves or slices.

A jellied Swedish meat loaf is another winning use of this cold meat. Liver sausage is rubber through a sieve and combined with mayonnaise, dry mustard, finely-chopped celery, green pepper and onion. This mixture is added to slightly congealed tomato-flavored gelatin, then placed in a ring mold. When chilled and firm it is unmolded on a bed of shredded lettuce lightly sprinkled with paprika.
